

Alayne Crawford is Head of Government Relations and Regulatory Affairs for IBM Canada, based in Ottawa. In her role, Alayne is responsible for deepening relationships with federal and provincial officials across the country. Prior to joining IBM, she served as Director of Government Relations for Shaw Communications. Alayne is currently the Vice-President of the Board of the Government Relations Institute of Canada, a member of the Politics & the Pen Organizing Committee, a Fellow of Carleton University's Clayton H. Riddell Masters of Political Management (MPM) Program and is a founding board member of the Canadian Advocacy Network. Alayne spent 4 years working for the previous Conservative Government in various capacities, including the Prime Minister's Office. She holds a Bachelor of Arts from Carleton University and an MBA from Queen's University. In 2016, she was awarded PR in Canada's Top 30 under 30 award for Government Relations.

Twitter @AlayneJCrawford