

Tanya leads communications for the Canadian Internet Registration Authority (CIRA), the organization responsible for managing the .CA domain. Over nearly a decade at CIRA, she has held numerous roles that ranged from member engagement, to digital/web, to marketing. Most recently, Tanya is responsible for the development and implementation of a thought leadership strategy at CIRA, including the creation of original research in the area of internet trends, digital literacy, privacy and cybersecurity. She is also a founding member of the multistakeholder committee behind the Canadian Internet Governance Forum.