

Matthew M. Gamble is a passionate technologist and innovator, with a focus on disruptive technologies in the telecom and cloud space and a tireless advocate for a free, open, and affordable internet for all. Mr. Gamble has worked in the Service Provider industry for over 25 years and has experience directing a broad range of telecommunications, internet services, and regulatory initiatives. By day, he is the Principal of Int13 Consulting Inc., a Hamilton based consulting firm which focuses on assisting customers with cloud, voice, and digital transformation initiatives. Before founding Int13 in 2021, Mr. Gamble was the Principal Technologist at EGATE Networks Inc., a Toronto based ISP focused on delivering access, cloud, and voice services to enterprise customers. Mr Gamble also serves as Vice-Chair of the Internet Society, Canada Chapter as well as a Director for the Canadian Internet Registration Authority (CIRA)